Council Has Three Public Hearings

Following a public hearing, City Council tabled for two weeks a proposed paving policy presented two weeks earlier calling for a maximum price of $10 per foot in paving special assessments.

Atty. Peter S. Boter, who previously had represented a number of residents on South Shore Dr. protesting proposed charges for street improvements, cited Supreme Court opinions in connection with upgrading hard-surfaced streets making them arterial highways. He also spoke of unfair assessments on irregularly shaped lots, emphasizing assessments must be based on benefits to the property owners. He said if the policy were adopted, it would be wholeheartedly opposed by South Shore Dr. residents.

City Manager William L. Bopf admitted that Supreme Court rulings had muddled the issue, but said doing away with assessments would not be fair to those in the core city and elsewhere who have paid for paving through the years.

Councilman Morris Peerbolt said few streets have been paved recently "and we need a policy to get it going again." He said South Shore Dr. was a major arterial route and was "in lousy condition" when the city took it over. He said Council had worked for a two-lane route with a bicycle lane, decent drains and attempts to satisfy some aesthetic objections. He hoped Mr. Boter could be more positive in his approach and said there is never complete equity in assessments or in taxes.

Boter retorted he had been requested to voice his opinions, and that his was particularly an academic approach — in fact he was playing the Devil's Advocate.

City Atty. Gordon Cunningham said Mr. Boter was correct in his comments about the Supreme Court, but it appears that the opinion in question is not the final law in Michigan. Cunningham said there has been a sharp difference of opinion among legal advisors in the state, and quoted from various opinions, casting questions on the original opinion.

Mayor Pro Tem Lou Hallacy suggested tabling the policy until the first meeting in January but was opposed by Councilman Robert Dykstra who felt action should be taken earlier if any paving were to be scheduled for 1972. Dykstra's substitute motion to delay for two weeks carried.

Another public hearing dealt with rezoning 1½ acres on the west side of Washington Ave. adjacent to property owned by the Holland and Zeeland Area Nonprofit Housing Corp. from C-2 highway commercial to A-3 residential. Council adopted the ordinance, provided proper consideration be given to drainage in the area which already has a water problem. Huger Burnham of HAZAH said the original 15 acres previously had drained toward Washington Ave. but was designed to drain away from the area. City Engineer Harold Derks said he was satisfied with revised plans on draining for the housing development.

Another hearing on reviewing water main special assessment rolls met with no opposition, and the rolls were approved.

The previously tabled application of T. G. Hudson to rezone property at 1115 Lincoln Ave. from agricultural to highway commercial was reopened. After considerable discussion, Council referred the application back to the Planning Commission for reconsideration with the understanding that a public hearing will be called. The Planning Commission previously had recommended the application be denied. A new requirement in the law affecting cities over 25,000 calls for a public hearing before the Planning Commission and City Council. The vote was not unanimous.

Group Protests
One-Way Street
Trucks, Noise

Approximately 40 minutes of City Council's regular meeting Wednesday night was devoted to protests concerning one-way streets in Holland, mainly from residents on Ninth St. objecting to truck traffic, noise and speeding on what was termed a once-quiet residential street.

The initial presentation of 15 minutes was delivered by Atty. James Bidol who submitted a petition signed by approximately 300 persons living in the 100 homes on Ninth St. from Van Raalte to Columbia Aves. Another petition submitted by a resident bore 53 signatures.

Bidol emphasized the residential aspects of Ninth St. compared with Seventh St. which has some 14 homes on the one-way route, the generally well-kept homes, the problems caused by noise and vibrations on a street not designed for heavy traffic, the fumes and smoke, the high speed, the parking problems, devaluation of property and the potential for slums.

He asked Council to rethink the entire program and reverse its position, returning the street to the quiet residential area it was before.

He was followed by several persons pointing to various problems. Among them were Angel Morales, 126 West Ninth St., who objected to speeding; Fred Smith, 187 West Ninth St., who expressed fear for the safety of children and elderly persons; Fred Zeerip, who asked whether Sixth St. had been considered as a truck route; a Hope college student living in a cottage at 160 East Ninth St., who complained of noise, and Gary Beckman, 88 East Ninth St., who spoke of the difficulty of getting out of driveways, the problems of speeding and "no police control."

William Clay, representing Padnos Iron and Metal Co., voiced opposition to plans for extending one-way traffic on Pine Ave., describing a circuitous route the company trucks would have to take to get to the scales. A suggestion that Padnos build a service road did not meet with company approval since the estimated cost would be $25,000, Clay said.

Atty. Peter S. Boter, who said he owned property at 69 West Ninth St. and was representing another owner, pointed out that Ninth St. has never developed into commercial property, that Council was premature in subjecting Ninth St. residents to the problems of one-way traffic, ending with a dramatic plea for consideration for the Ninth St. residents which brought a round of applause from the council chambers, crowded mostly with Ninth St. residents.

Later in the meeting Councilman Robert Dykstra asked when Traffic Consultant Adrian Koert would be completing his study on an overall truck route system for Holland, and City Manager William L. Bopf thought it would be another month.

Councilman Albert Kleis Jr. asked that the information be made available immediately on receipt to Councilmen so that "action can be taken right away."

Council had taken action two weeks ago to extend one-way traffic on Pine and River Aves. and this week approved the following revisions to the traffic schedule.

1. Erection of yield sign so that the south lane of Pine Ave. yields at the Van Bragt park turnout for the north lane of Pine Ave.
2. Speed limits increased to 30 mph on River Ave. from Fourth to First Sts. Pine Ave. speed limits increased to 30 mph from River Ave. south to Seventh St.
3. Allow parking on west side of River Ave. from Ninth to Third Sts. with the use of parking meters at the present five-cent hour rate, subject to change when all parking rates are revised.

These changes will be effective Nov. 22 when one-way traffic is extended on River and Pine Aves.

Council approved city manager recommendations to erect school crossing signs on Ninth St. and Maple Ave., placing the signs a sufficient distance preceding the Maple Ave. intersection. He also recommended that 25 mph speed limit signs be posted at appropriate locations through this residential area as a reminder of the established speed limit. It was indicated that this area will be given extra attention by the police department and that the matter of crossing guards is being considered on a shared basis with the school system.

Study Plans
For 125th
Anniversary

Progress reports of plans for celebrating the city's 125th anniversary in 1972 were reviewed at a monthly meeting of the committee Tuesday night in City Hall.

While most features outside of a religious observance Feb. 6 in Dimment Memorial Chapel are still in the planning stage, some advancement was noted. Lupita Reyes and Olga Santamaria have joined the committee and are planning a Latin-American festival for the Spanish-speaking people who have been arriving in Holland over a period of some 25 years. Roger Walcott, director of Herrick Public Library, is helping promote historical displays throughout the year in local libraries.

Willard C. Wichers spoke of gearing a summer or early fall event with a planned visit of perhaps 200 persons of Drenthe, The Netherlands, working out plans with the Dutch Immigrant Society for special rates with KLM airlines. The AAUW may assist in lining up hosts for the local visit. Plans may call for a bus trip around Lake Michigan.

Wichers also has been working on checking copy for a special layout on Holland, Mich., in the February issue of the Holland Herald, an Amsterdam-based magazine of wide circulation which also reaches into the Iron Curtain countries.

Edward Prins in continuing his genealogical studies and is working on passenger lists of Dutch emigrants around 1847.

Dec. 1 is the deadline for entries in the special emblem contest in which the winning entry will serve as a cover for church bulletins Feb. 6 and as a special logo for Tulip Time programs and other attractions during the year. The 125th anniversary will be used as an "umbrella" for many activities during 1972.

It was announced that the Magnachords will include some Dutch selections at its Wednesday program in Civic Center during Tulip Time.

There was discussion on the possibility of having the Artrain visit Holland in 1972, the possibility of having a Dutch folk dance company appear here and general aims for future development such as exchange students with the Netherlands, taping stories of longtimers in Holland area, and preserving historical buildings.

The committee is headed by John Bloemendaal and Albert Kleis Jr., local councilmen. Kleis presided at Tuesday's meeting.

Federal Aid
Sought For Local Pool

City Council Wednesday night authorized City Manager William L. Bopf to proceed with filing an application for 50 per cent of the funding through the federal government under the Land and Water Conservation Fund for constructing an outdoor swimming pool at Smallenburg Park.

Estimated cost of the outdoor pool was listed as $175,000, of which $65,000 already has been promised by an anonymous donor. An additional $22,500 would be required from city funding or from additional contributions.

A plot plan was submitted, giving three possible pool sites in Smallenburg Park on Fairbanks Ave. north of 16th St.

Council took under advisement until the next meeting three city manager recommendations regarding parking. One calls for removal of not more than three parking meters in front of the post office, removal of three parking meters at Fill-N-Wash facility at Sixth and River, and removal of parking on Eighth St. from Columbia to Lincoln Ave. This block had been posted by State Highway Department authorities in connection with the Oct. 18 implementation of one-way streets. The change had not been authorized by the city, but the Highway Department has asked that the parking ban be approved. Council is considering the possibility of parking on one side of the street. No parking will be allowed after March 1.

He presented color slides for demonstration. Later City Manager Bopf said some reduced speed signs could be placed there.

Toward the close of the meeting, Councilman John Bloemendaal presented petitions bearing 92 names of people in the area of Washington School favoring an expanded park - playground at the school. A request for reduced speed on West Ninth St. at Maple Ave. for a school crossing was referred to the city manager.

On the application for federal funds for developing a swimming pool, Councilman Hazen Van Kampen asked whether the use of the pool would in any way be limited to city children. City Manager Bopf replied

Miss Lois Van Dyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Van Dyke, 5910 Chicago Dr., Zeeland, became the bride of Marc Bruischat, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Bruischat, 347 East 26th St., Saturday afternoon.

The 2 p.m. ceremony in Third Christian Reformed Church, Zeeland, was performed by the Rev. Eugene Los. Mrs. Ellyn Klynstra was organist, while Miss Melody Knoper played the harp and Mrs. Harold Slag read a poem.

The bride's long gown in brocade and velvet had a juliet neckline and long full sleeves with an attached chapel sweep train. West Ottawa Production Opens Season

The West Ottawa Theatre opened its season Friday night with "Flowers for Algernon," the moving story of a retarded adult whose IQ soars from 68 to 185 following unique brain surgery. The work is also the basis of the motion picture "Charly."

Frank Wierenga was tremendous in his interpretation of the morose - genius Charlie Gardon and his transition from retarded to intellectual was smooth and believable. Wierenga's overall portrayal was compassionate and empathetic.

Other characters in the production had more difficulty with their parts in the already difficult play whose numerous scene shifts rendered its flow rather choppy.

Deb Garvelink's portrayal of Alice Kinnian, Charlie's teacher who eventually falls in love with him, began to lose its stiffness only toward the end of the production. Her lines were delivered flawlessly, however, and she did project the teacher's character well.

David Walker as the pompous Prof. Nemur who sees Charlie as his own original creation, was also a bit wooden in his portrayal but, by the end of the play, his interpretation was attaining more polish.

Dr. Strauss, the neurosurgeon who performed the delicate brain operation, was portrayed well by Clark Van Hekken whose stage movements were excellent and whose acting exuded confidence.

Burt Sheldon, the lab technician who introduces Charley to Algernon, the white mouse who has had a similar brain operation, and who administers many of the tests to measure Charlie's progress, is portrayed by Doug Butler who didn't seem so much affected by the stilted performances which overtook other cast members.

Other students in the cast were Beth Coats as Doris, Sue Vanden Bosch as the nurse, Mike Troost as the taunting Frank, Cheryl Streaur as Gina, Gail Veneklasen as Mrs. Diner, the baker's wife who gave Charlie a job; and Randy Brouwer as Joe, another bakery employee.

Charlie's domineering mother was portrayed well by Karen Seidelman and his father was interpreted by Ken Brouwer. Tom Doyle was little Charlie and re-appeared throughout the play as the silent shadow waiting to repossess his mind and body. Dawn Brouwer was perfect as the spoiled, pampered normal sister, Norma.

Cathy Zeeb was Mrs. Feldman and Dave Wierenga interpreted the teenage Charlie whose entire being had been shaped by a mother who was determined he would be sent away if he wouldn't be normal.

Other minor characters were portrayed by Amy Ladewig as Connie, Mary Jo Coughenour as Bernice, Karen Jones as the chairlady, and Julia Troost, who mastered a beautiful brogue for her portrayal of Charlie's landlady Mrs. Mooney, who soothes problems with Irish stew and tea.

Miss Coughenour was also Mrs. Nemer with John Beem as Mr. Harvey, Kathy Webster as Jackie Welberg, S. Vanden Bosch as Anne Welberg and Gay Porter as the adult Norma Gordon.

Concert goers were Dennis Nienhuis, J. Beem, Greg Macqueen, Joan Vander Kool, B. Coats, Sue Sawitzky, Dan Weller and Cindy Vanders.

The voices in the crowd were D. Nienhuis and D. Weller, and the party guests were A. Ladewig, K. Jones, S. Sawitzky, G. Macqueen, D. Weller and D. Nienhuis.

The play is directed by Phillip K. Sturdevant.

IRREPARABLE INJURY?

Federal Judge Noel P. Fox has upheld the packaged meat laws against the request of meat processing companies for lowering them to federal standards. Many will approve his decision.

In Michigan, since 1952, packaged meats must contain a minimum of 12 per cent protein; the federal laws state no minimum. In Michigan packaged meats must contain only skeletal meats, which means that lips, innards, ears, udders, and suchlike cannot be ground into hamburger or sausage.

The meat packaging companies contended that this stringency of standard, it's being higher than the federal standard, caused their concerns irreparable injury. Judge Fox felt that since they had lived with the law for almost 20 years, it was unlikely that irreparable injury was being caused.

We are all for federal standards. At the same time we would like to reserve the right of a sovereign state to set its own standards higher than those of the federal government. If specifically, the people of Michigan wish to insure themselves of better packaged meats than it can get by federal standards, it should have the clear right to insist on this by means of its laws. It is this right that Judge Fox has vindicated. It is a valuable principle.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, Nov. 21
God Conquers Evil
Romans 5:1-11
By C. P. Dame

We hear a lot about evil today. Since there are more people in the world today than ever, there is more evil also. This lesson teaches a great fact which all do not believe—that God conquered evil through Jesus Christ.

I. We are justified by faith. And this means that a person gets right with God by faith in Jesus Christ. By nature man is not right with God. Justification is a legal term taken from the courts, where it means that a person charged with a crime is declared innocent. How can God, the Judge, declare man, a sinner and law-breaker, innocent? God did this through the redemption wrought by Jesus on the cross. By faith a sinner accepts Jesus as Savior and Lord, receives pardon for his sins and is restored to sonship.

The person who is justified has peace in his heart for he is on good terms with God and has fellowship with Him. This privilege is due to God's grace. The justified believer also has hope; he rejoices in hope of the glory of God. Christians look forward to their own glorification as well to the glorification of God, namely his victory over evil.

Due to their new standing with God, Christians live victoriously. They can glory in tribulations. It takes divine grace to do this. Tribulation develops patience, a virtue much needed, and patience, experience, hope: "and hope maketh not ashamed"—does not disappoint and makes possible to rejoice in the midst of suffering, knowing that all serves a purpose.

II. God showed his love in Christ. To die for another is not easy. Some one hardly is willing to die for a righteous man because he is apt to be stern, but for a good man a person may perhaps die. Christ died for sinners. The words "by his blood" refer to Christ's sacrificial death. Christ rose again now and lives and hence we may be sure of our salvation, which means that we are saved from God's wrath. Christ bore God's wrath for us on the cross.

III. Jesus Christ brings joy. "And not only so, but we also joy in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ." Jesus told his disciples to be of good cheer. The gospel when fully accepted makes people joyful. In these days when pleasure seeking and recreation play a big role in life, people should be told that the Christian religion makes living more joyful, and gives greater appreciation to the wholesome things of life.

Stimulating Wit Marks Painting Demonstration

An exciting new approach to painting—"not how to paint but the principles by which I paint"—was revealed to the Woman's Literary Club Tuesday afternoon by Helen Van Wyk who maintains a studio and gallery in Rockport, Me.

Using acrylics, the artist demonstrated by painting a portrait, a landscape and a still life under the subject, "The Three Faces of Painting." "Everybody can paint but some paint better than others," Miss Van Wyk said in her introduction. "First of all, the painter must be motivated, his idea must provide a concept, must fit into a balance and position, may be larger than life or smaller than life, should have proportion, perspective, tone and color."

Miss Van Wyk said painting is related to five simple shapes, the circle, the cylinder, triangle, pylon and box, and then proceeded to use a circle (sort of egg shaped), a box and another shape or two in painting a portrait, a cutdown version of the usual 10-hour job, but nonetheless one that developed stroke by stroke with regard to color, light and shadows. Along the way, the audience learned that both eyes should be painted at the same time, or the color never matches.

Miss Van Wyk said the texture of skin is something like the skin of an apple, and it's better to practice on apples than people because apples don't talk. "Don't let the model see the picture until it's done and don't talk about it. And if the model doesn't 'send for the something' the painter cannot paint it."

With her own stimulating wit, the artist says it is best to start with a sable brush, but if you know what you're doing, you can start with a broom and end up with a needle.

Demonstrating a landscape, she selected her home setting of Rockport, Me., with sky, woods, autumn colors, house, barn, shack, rocks and water, pointing out that nature has no monotony, that painting must be plausible but not necessarily realistic. "Be careful of your poetic license in painting. The whole secret of freedom is discipline," she said.

She bowed to Holland in her third demonstration, painting a bouquet of tulips in a copper vase, an open book and fruit. "Start dark," she said, "you can always add the light. Don't repeat past success since consistency is the quality of a stagnant mind." The latter remark was made as she decided to change a red apple into a tiny wine goblet to balance her picture.

Mrs. Thomas De Pree, club president, referred to the upcoming Thanksgiving season and Mrs. Garrett Vander Borgh of the necrology committee paid tribute to four club members who died since the last club year, Mrs. Herbert Stanaway, Mrs. William C. Vandenberg Sr., Mrs. Irene Ver Hulst and Mrs. John Kobes.

Volunteer Groups Join Glass Effort

Spurred by continued community interest in ecology, the CHAMPS and the March of Dimes Teen Action program have joined forces in collecting glass in the local community.

CHAMPS, Christian High Athletic Membership Project Society, is a Christian high athletic booster organization. By working together, the two groups handle large amounts of glass and hauling is more economical. The merger was effective early in October. The groups alternate Saturdays in providing volunteer help at the collection site at the former city landfill at Sixth St. and College Ave. The collection site is open each Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. except holidays,

At the site, all glass is checked for cleanliness, caps and to make sure that all metal rings are removed. Then the glass is sorted by color—clear, green and brown—and put into huge containers holding approximately glass apiece.

After the containers are filled, Jacobus's Refuse Service Co. hauls them to Charlotte where the Owens-Illinois Co. pays $20 a ton. After freight expenses are paid, the money is divided equally between the two groups.

Four to eight volunteers make the collections each week. Many other groups interested in a "solution to pollution" have provided volunteers.

The Padnos Iron and Metal Co. of Holland provides a truck each Saturday for paper bags and cardboard boxes that accumulate. Brooks Products Inc. has been the coordinator for the glass collections between volunteer groups and the Owens-Illinois Co.

In September, Brooks Products Inc. was the first bottler in Michigan to pave its parking lot with "glassphalt" in which 90 tons of glass was provided by Holland and surrounding areas.

Voss Scores Four TDs For Hope

Hope College let out all of its frustration Saturday at Riverview Park in the season football finale by humiliating hapless Grand Valley State College, 64-0.

The 64 markers is the most points the Dutchmen have scored in 52 years before a partisan Parents Day crowd.

The winning margin was the largest by a Hope squad since the 1919 season when the Dutchmen crushed Ferris Institute, 71-7.

Coach Ray Smith of Hope can't be accused of running up the score as he had the second string in the game early in the second quarter and used four different quarterbacks and 12 running backs while gaining a single-game record 534 yards on the ground. The old mark was 502 yards in a 61-0 rout over Olivet College in 1956.

The victory also concluded the best offensive season in history. The Dutchmen ended with a record 665 total yards behind 35 first downs to only seven for the losers.

Hope ended the season with all-time records in rushing with 2,338 yards and in total offense at 3,447.

Grand Valley, coached by former Hope standout Robert "Rip" Collins, ended the season at 0-7 while the Dutchmen closed out the year at 4-5.

"It was good to see us score some points after last week's game against Adrian but we never dreamed of anything like this," Smith stated. "I don't believe in running up the score and I just hope people don't think that I did because everyone on our squad saw lots of action, as we substituted freely throughout the game."

Hope wasted little time in scoring as Greg Voss scooted 12 yards for a TD with 10:20 to play in the first period. Mike Hinga's kick upped the margin to 7-0.

The green Lakers, who were competing in their first varsity season, showed their inexperience on the next play, as freshman back David Brumfield stepped out of the end zone with the kickoff and then back in, and was charged with a safety. Before Grand Valley knew what hit them, they were down by nine points.

Voss' second of four touchdowns gave Hope a 15-0 quarter advantage. Hope's sensational tailback from Muskegon busted over from the three.

The 165-pounder, who was ranked seventh among the nation's small college backs going into the game, ended with 188 yards in 19 attempts while playing in less than half the contest. Voss ended the season with 1,284 yards in nine tilts.

There was no stopping Hope, as Voss and Chuck Brooks were running at will behind some great blocking that opened holes big enough for a truck to drive through.

Two more TDs, one on two yards and another that covered 24 yards by Voss increased Hope's lead to 27-0.

Reserve quarterback Bob Carlson of Muskegon ran 16 yards on a fine play for a touchdown while junior defensive back Doug Smith, who got a rare chance to play offense made the most of it by scamporing 20 and 47 yards for TDs to give the Dutchmen an unreal 46-0 halftime bulge.

The only play that Grand Valley was stopping was the PAT, as Hope was able to only convert two out of 10 extra point tries. Zeeland's Jim Lamer added the second one just before the intermission.

Barry Brugger of Grand Haven scored Hope's only touchdown in the third period by jaunting seven yards into the end zone to make the score, 52-0.

Fourth string signal caller Ray Lubbers of Coopersville ran one-yard for another Dutchmen six-pointer with 3:48 to play in the final stanza.

Another Muskegon product, fullback Bob Buikema bulled his way 10 yards for the final Hope TD with 1:53 left.

Grand Valley did manage to get to Hope's 12 in the third period but the drive was thwarted by a fumble.

The Lakers, who were playing in their first game in three weeks, ended with 124 yards rushing and no yards passing. It was the second straight week that Hope's strong secondary has held their opponent without any yards in the air.

Seven seniors played their final game for the Dutchmen and they included outstanding middle guard Ted Rycenga of Spring Lake, ends Jim Lamer and Craig Schrotenboer of Zeeland, center Chris Hahn of Kalamazoo, linebacker Doug Nelson of Rockford, Ill., quarterback Jon Constant of Grand Haven and kicker Mike Hinga of Kalamazoo.

4 Calvin Students Injured as Auto Rolls into Median

Four Calvin college students escaped serious injuries at 7:35 a.m. Monday when their small foreign car overturned in the median while heading north along I-196 at the 140th St. overpass southwest of Holland.

Treated at Holland Hospital and released were Thomas Voss, 19, of Westchester, Ill., driver of the car, and his passengers, Luanne Voss, 20, of Westchester; Sue Hook, 20, of Modesto, Calif., and Les Kroeze, 20, of Grand Rapids.

State Police at South Haven said Voss apparently fell asleep at the wheel and lost control of the car.

Krans Family Dates Back In Zeeland

At the age of 4½ months, little Jay H. Krans hasn't given the matter much thought but if he follows in the footsteps of his forebears, he is due for a long and happy life in the community of Zeeland.

Although there are many descendants, Jay is the only one of his generation who can claim direct lineage in the family name of his ancestors who were among the area's first settlers in 1847. In that year the family of Harm Krans, in a group of 452 persons, left The Netherlands to come to America. At that time, Harm's son Hendrik was 10 years old.

The family cleared a farm from the wilderness two miles northeast of the present city of Zeeland and this was passed down from father to son.

Harry Krans was born on that family farm. After his marriage in 1915 and until his retirement, Harry operated a farm in Blendon township which he also cleared from virgin land. Now 89 years old, he is a resident of the Allendale Rest Home.

Gerald was born on the farm in Blendon and after his marriage made his home in Zeeland where James and Jay were born.

Harm Krans, the original pioneer, died in 1888 at the age of 80 and his son, Hendrik, died at the age of 84.

Swingaroos Club Has Thanksgiving Dance

The Swingaroos Club held its Thanksgiving Square Dance Saturday evening. Punch was served from a table decorated with paper turkeys, and a centerpiece consisting of a horn of plenty filled with autumn fruits and orange candies was displayed on the refreshment table.

Serving on the lunch committee were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ketchum, Mr. and Mrs. Parky Everett and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Glass. A group from the West Olive area was among the guests.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Platt of Grand Haven; Mr. and Mrs. Gil Wade of Allegan and Mr. and Mrs. Bom Novota of Holland; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Earle of Spring Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rat-erink of Zeeland; the Paul Bekkers, Chuck Monhollors, Roy Wehrmeyers, John McKlaksays and Don Israels of Holland.

The next dance will be Dec. 18 at West Ottawa High School. This is called the Holland's Holly Dance.

The earliest official poet laureate was John Dryden, appointed in 1668.

Condition of Lake Macatawa Could Be Reversed

EYE POLLUTION MARS PORTION OF LAKE MACATAWA SHORELINE

People Could Help With Lake Macatawa Solution

By Linda Klungle

The condition of Lake Macatawa is steadily worsening, according to Dr. Donald Williams, associate professor of chemistry at Hope College, but the situation can be stopped and even reversed if individuals in the area are willing to do whatever they can, regardless of how little, to help.

Improvements are being made, Williams said, and remedial plans are being implemented by both the city and industry. It is important, however, to remember that the city is "us" and, even though it is in the midst of improving, individuals must also take responsibility for helping.

"People garbage" is a primary cause of pollution around such areas as Van Bragt Park, Williams pointed out, adding that this same type of garbage is the culprit in much of the uglier pollution littering the Lake Macatawa shoreline.

Contrary to the beliefs of many, duck weed and not algae is evident around Van Bragt Park, where it settles, Williams said.

Old tires, bottles, cans, scraps of paper and even rusty oil drums could be removed if concerned adults would organize a "river pick-up" to clear the debris from the area. Because of the danger involved with the nearness to the water, adults, rather than Boy Scouts, Blue Birds or other young people's organizations, should assume the responsibility for cleaning up these specific messes, Williams suggested.

Another kind of people pollution arises in the area of the various marinas on Lake Macatawa, Williams said. Oil, gasoline, which leaves lead in the water, and litter mark the marinas' contributions to waste in the lake.

Voluntary programs with no force of law are being effected in the area and sponsoring groups hope that good examples will serve as motivators for those who are not part of the answer to the problem.

For example, the recently initiated "Pollution Solution" campaign complete with bumper stickers and posters is meeting with cooperation from private citizens and industry alike. Companies are writing letters listing positive actions they have taken or are planning to take to help clean up the environment, and the "Pollution Solution" committee is working with citizens groups toward implementation of plans and ideas. Tentative plans call for some kind of public recognition for those companies and individuals that help bring about success in the project.

Last year the county commissioners authorized a study to help save the Black River Basin which the resulting "Water Quality Management Plan for the Black River Basin" compiled by Bauer Engineering, Inc., terms "one of the smaller important drainage basins in western Michigan."

With a total drainage area of 176 square miles, the basin is 22nd in size of all such basins in the lower peninsula that discharge directly into Lake Michigan, and is much smaller than the adjacent Grand River and Kalamazoo River basins.

In spite of its size, however, comparisons show that the Black River's population growth has far outstripped those of both Muskegon and Kent counties, especially in the last decade, according to the Bauer report. The local basin contains all or part of six Ottawa county townships and three Allegan county townships with major population centers at Holland and Zeeland.

The Black River Basin covers about 1,800 acres, Dr. Williams explained, and reaches east nearly to Hudsonville, north to West Olive and south halfway to Saugatuck. The result of the small drainage basin is the slow induction of new water into Lake Macatawa.

The lake divides into two halves near the Gold estate, according to William French, professor of geology at Hope, who pointed out that the east half of the lake is flushed less thoroughly than the west half. As a result, the east half with its larger population is more polluted than the west half.

The pollution flows into the lake and mixes and settles with the silt that has washed down from the surrounding farmlands. The result, according to Williams, is silt composed of up to 20 per cent organic matter. Good potting soil available in stores is about 30 per cent organic matter, he said, and some places on the lake's bottom have black soil deposits 13 feet deep.

Urban run-off is also a cause of pollution in the lake, Williams added, explaining that increased pavements cause increased pollution of the lake's waters because rainwater can no longer seep into the ground but washes into the lake carrying with it refuse and drippings from motor vehicles.

Most of the industries that dump wastes directly into the surface waters of the lake provide some kind of treatment facilities to reduce the discharge, according to the Bauer report, which said these facilities vary from simple screening of gross solids to complete biological treatment systems. Most of the organic and solid wastes dumped by industry and cities into the lower Black River or the upper end of Lake Macatawa receive only the equivalent of primary treatment and a longtime policy only now being changed is that everyone treats his own waste material before dumping.

In a breakdown of industrial dumping, the December 1970 Bauer report lists various companies and their input of waste material.

Mead Johnson and Co. has a direct discharge of .11 million gallons per day (mgd) of organic waste with treatment by activated sludge; Holland Die Casting, .17 mgd, metals, chemical treatment and lagoons; Donnelly Mirrors, .12 mgd, solids, chemical coagulation treatment; Parke - Davis, 6.00, primarily cooling water, deep well disposal activated sludge; Holland Color, .53 mgd, organic, chemical treatment and sedimentation; H. J. Heinz, .70 mgd, organic and salt, screening; and Bohn Aluminum, .22 mgd, metals, chemical treatment and lagoons.

The city of Holland dumps about 3.5 mgd into the lake, Williams said.

The State Water Resources Commission as well as the federal government are beginning to pressure industry to control and treat wastes dumped into the lakes, according to Williams, who alluded to the Refuse Act of 1899 which states that no one can put anything into navigable waters without a permit. The act was originally used to keep persons from dumping logs into lakes and interfering with shipping, but during the past summer the federal government dusted off the old law and the Army Corps of Engineers is presently using it to make decisions for granting dumping permits.

On permit applications, industries must state the content, type, etc., of any wastes that will be discharged into the lake and Williams feels that one of the main advantages to the old law is that now it will be on record exactly what is going into the lake water.

The Bauer report suggests sewers and spray irrigation in the northside to improve the treatment of waste materials and dredging has also been suggested as a possible solution, with rich soil taken from the lake bottom returned to fields and farmlands.

Other suggestions in the plan include more shoreline facilities like Kollen Park, soil conservation and improvement of the up-river area, silt abatement dams if necessary and shoreline regulation to avoid run-off, prevent erosion, control drains and beautify. The Bauer report concludes that there will be rejuvenation of the lake following implementation of the plan. There are some differences of opinion, however.

It is clearly time to think on a watershed basis, ignoring political boundaries, to help Lake Macatawa, Dr. Williams said, adding that the problems with the lake are primarily people problems and concerned people can solve them.

Tough Chix Defense Does Super Job

ZEELAND — A rugged Zeeland football team blanketed West Ottawa, 22-0 Friday night in the final game for both teams. The Chix defensive showing was the best since the 1929 season, as they shut out the opposition for 27 quarters including the last 21 in a row. Zeeland combined a grinding ground game with a tough defense to hand the Panthers their seventh loss of the season. This was a fine Zeeland team that chalked up seven wins and two losses.

Keith Kraai led the Chix tenacious defense along with Bruce DeJonge. Kraai ended the season with an overwhelming 108 solo tackles while DeJonge had 88 to his credit.

The Panthers offense couldn't go against Zeeland's wall except on 11 pass completions for 126 yards. West Ottawa could only muster 68 yards rushing as Pat Allen was injured early in the second period.

The Chix took the opening kickoff and wasted no time in scoring. Quarterback Terry Hop passed 25 yards to Rick Brinks to set up the first score with Hop carrying it 23 yards for the TD. Hop also ran the two point conversion to give Zeeland an early 8-0 lead.

Later in the first quarter the Chix intercepted a pass on the 50 yard line and again Hop raced 42 yards to pay dirt for a 14-0 lead.

Paul Berkompas played a brilliant game for the Panthers on defense. Berkompas was the defensive leader for the Panthers all season and ended his career with a pass interception and many fine tackles. Ken Topp, Terry Craycraft, Doug Vork and Steve Kruihof all looked good on defense for the Panthers.

Seniors playing their final game for West Ottawa were Allen, Berkompas, Topp, Kruihof, John DeWys, Bill Vandenberg, Dean Dams, Tom Van Slooten and Raleigh Kerber.

West Ottawa was able to complete 11 of 19 passes with Tom DeVree catching five. Vandenberg and Curt Weatherbee also made some fine receptions for the Panthers.

Coach Ken Postma assisted by Bill Beckering, Ron Plasman, Jack Alexander, Steve Piersma and John Norton had 13 seniors playing their final game.

They included Rick Brinks, Fred Louis, Bob Johnson, Hop, Rod Brinks, Jef Flaherty, Dave Kraai, Kendall Dozeman, Joe Zylstra, Tom Barr, Scott Zuverink, Kraai and Kent Engle.

Johnson, Zeeland's fine full back scored the Chix third touchdown in the third period on a six-yard run off tackle. Johnson is an excellent blocking back which enabled Hop to make some long gainers.

This was probably the finest defensive team that Coach Ron Wetherbee's Panthers have seen all season and considering the explosive offensive the Chix have, West Ottawa's defense did not play too bad. Wetherbee was assisted this season by Clare De Mull and Neil Meinke.

West Ottawa had an excellent night on punts averaging 48 yards per kick, with Allen and Vork punting.

Mona Shores Hands Dutch 14-12 Defeat

Holland ran into a tough nut Friday night at Riverview Park that wouldn't crack under any circumstances as he paced Mona Shores to a slim 14-12 football victory over the Dutch in the season final.

Junior halfback Scott McEwen ran for 185 yards in 20 carries and scampered 64 yards for the clinching TD to open the third period to spark the Sailors over the Dutch.

"He was probably the best back we have faced all season," said Coach Dave Kempker of the Dutch.

The Dutch were trying hard to notch a victory for Coach Dave Kempker, who officially stepped down at the end of the game, as the most successful mentor in Holland history.

Holland's defeat was its fourth of the season in nine games and gives Kempker a fine 36-22-5 overall mark in his seven seasons as Dutch coach. His overall coaching record is 79-43-10 which is good in anyone's league. It was also Kempker's first loss to Mona Shores in seven years.

"I thought that the fellows did a fine job for us all year, stated Kempker. "Mona Shores just had too much for us Friday night."

Speedy Frank Howell tallied the Sailors first TD by dashing 40 yards into the end zone on a reverse play with 3:21 to play in the first period. Jeff Caplitz first of two extra point kicks was good to up the score to 7-0.

It looked like Holland scored on a neat nine-yard run by Terry Marlink but an illegal motion penalty nullified the T.D. Moments later, the Sailors got a big break as the Dutch fumbled in the end zone to kill the drive.

With Larry Horn, Craig Kuipers, Marlink and Randy Kuipers running rather well, the Dutch marched down to score on a two-yard run by R. Kuipers to cut the margin to 7-6, as the PAT for the conversion failed.

Senior end Warren Jansen picked up a Howell fumble on his own 20 and scooted 31 yards to the 49 of the Sailors to set up Holland's final score of the evening.

R. and C. Kuipers and Marlink ran the ball down to the one, where Horn took it over on a sneak to close out the scoring at 14-12. Horn's all important extra point pass to Marlink was just out of his reach.

Probe Reports Of Black Animal In Saugatuck Area

SAUGATUCK — Village officials Saturday pondered their next move in the investigation of reports that a large black animal was seen roaming the area near Blue Star Highway and 135th St. Oct. 18.

Village president Julius Van Oss said there were reported sightings of an animal by three persons on that day, including a man known to be a hunter. The sightings were reported at about 11:30 a.m.

Since then other reports have been received.

But Van Oss said there were no reports of animals killed or damage to trees or crops.

Wednesday or Thursday Saugatuck police searched the area but found no evidence. Van Oss said persons reporting the sightings called the animal a Black Panther.

"If we get further reports, we'll investigate them," said Van Oss.

Skills Center Visited By Women Voters League

Several members of the Committee for Local Study of the League of Women Voters of the Holland Area, visited the Kent Skills Center, in Grand Rapids, on Monday.

This is one of several trips the committee members have taken in the study of this year's local study item. The question that is being studied, "Is there a need for a Vocational - Technical Facility in the Holland Area?"

The Kent Skill Center is for 11th and 12th graders in Kent County, and 19 school districts are involved. The students attend their home high school for their academic studies and go to the skill center for concentrated career education. The slogan of the Center is, "Where there is a skill there is a way."

The directors of the center believe that to be effective, what the students do at the center must be a real life situation, and also everything must be a learning experience. With that in mind, the restaurant is open to the public, those learning commercial baking sell their products to staff and visitors and services are performed for people in other areas.

The director of the center expressed this thought about the center, "All the schools in Kent County pooled their resources to make a more effective Center, resources, finances and students."

Other facilities visited by the committee recently were Genesee County Skill Center in Flint; Muskegon Area Skill Center and Muskegon Community College; and Kalamazoo Community College. These have all been area efforts to try and bring better and more diverse educational opportunities to all children.

The Committee for Local Study of the League of Women Voters will present their findings at a January general meeting.

Businesslike Approach Leaves Hope in 'Black'

Hope College is bucking a trend that finds many of the nation's independent colleges tightening their belts.

A businesslike approach to its financial operations finds Hope operating in the black, expanding its student body, raising salaries and engaging in an extensive building program.

Hope opened a new $7.9 million students and cultural center

this fall and in the near future will break ground for a $4 million academic-science building. In the course of launching a 10-year $10-million building program, Hope has wiped out a $285,000 deficit in less than three years, nearly doubled its operating budget and added to its faculty and student body. It has been able to do this by bringing in a financial executive from industry to put the college's program on a business basis, according to Hugh De Pree, president of the board of trustees.

Since Clarence J. Handlogten, executive vice president, came to Hope in 1966, the college's debt not only has been wiped out, De Pree said, but the budget has been balanced. The school cleared up its deficit a year ago, completed last year with an $81,000 surplus and projects a balanced budget for this year.

With the introduction of planning and budgeting, the student body has grown from 1,700 in 1966 to 2,100 today. The operating budget has been increased from $3.4 million to about $6 million — not including the cost of the new buildings. In the five years since business practices were introduced to budgeting and accounting, the faculty has been increased from 90 to 144, with total salaries up from $788,000 to $1,587,650 and the average salary up from nearly $8,750 to about $11,260 before the President's wage — price freeze went into effect.

Tuition, which defrays 80 per cent of the cost of an education at Hope, has been raised gradually. In 1966 tuition, room and board came to $1,700; it is now about $2,600.

Twenty per cent of the operating budget comes from contributions, grants, endowments and other sources. More than 60 per cent of the students receive some form of aid-scholarships, jobs or loans. Since 1966 scholarship funds have risen by about 300 per cent to more than $327,000.

Analyzing the problems of Hope when he came in from industry, Handlogten said that the college had not been basing its fiscal policies on economic planning. He introduced the concept of a 10-year forecast, with all of the college departments being held within their budgets, as the practice in business.

"A businesslike approach is not really foreign to nonprofit organizations," Handlogten explained. "A college is a business. Tight controls are necessary. Unfortunately, our product is not something that we can see. We are talking about creation of something in the minds and the lives of young people, and maybe to some degree in a few of us older people, too."

"Because we cannot see the product, there is a danger of being accused of interfering with education when we speak about efficiency and production, but the effective use of resources is in no way interfering with education. The faculty has been very cooperative in accepting this view." Handlogten recalled that two decades after World War II were the "golden years" for higher education, with money relatively easy to get from the government and foundations. Education was the "in" thing. With the development of racial and inner-city problems, however, and more recently ecological issues, higher education has lost some of its glamour as far as some of the chief sources of income are concerned.

Therefore, Handlogten noted, Hope has been bucking a trend since 1966. While other schools have been going into the red, Hope has been emerging into the black. Higher tuition provided part of the answer, he acknowledged, but at the same time, more careful business practices and stepped-up fundraising activities have also been of major importance.

"We found out that we had to do some planning and so we got busy," he said. "We found we could project balanced budgets. We got our ship in order. Now we are at a time when perhaps all of higher education, public and private, is under severe pressures, but we have done some things to establish where Hope is today, where we want to go and where we can realistically try to be in the next ten years."

When the mercury plunged to 19 degrees in Holland Nov. 7, all the spring blooms and other unseasonable bounties were no more.

But up to that time, stories kept trickling into The Sentinel of freakish (but welcome) signs of spring.

Four days before the big freeze the William Mulletts at 359 Howard Ave. found four lilac blossoms on a bush in their yard, seen through a snow shower accompanied by thunder and lightning. They had just returned home two days earlier from Ipswich, England. They had come to this country 16 years ago and this was their first return visit to England.

AUTO TAGS ON SALE — Michigan's 1972 auto license tags went on sale Monday at the local office of the Secretary of State, 186 River Ave., north of Eighth St. Bureau manager Willard Ten Have said about 30 persons were in line this morning when the office was opened at 10 a.m. but he said apparently no one spent the night in line as has been the case in past years. Ten Have said the ability to purchase the tags by mail may have put a damper on efforts to become the first in line. This year, reflector-ized tags (inset) are being sold instead of the full sized metal plates. The tags are to be attached to the lower right corner of the rear plates on passenger cars. When purchasing the tags in person, Ten Have said proof of insurance must be shown as well as ownership of the car, either by registration forms or the form mailed by the state. The office will be open until 6:30 p.m. Mondays and from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.
